

Your Forest, Your Voice!

Join the Santa Fe National Forest in revising its Forest Management Plan

What is a Forest Plan and why does it matter?

- The Forest Plan serves as the “vision” for the forest and provides broad management guidelines to help us realize that vision
- It guides forest management, use, and protection for the long term—10-15 years
- It covers the many uses of the forest and its resources, from hunting, hiking, camping, and skiing to grazing and firewood collection
- Once approved, all work projects must comply with the Forest Plan, or the Plan must be amended

What is the purpose of these meetings?

- Provide introductory information about Forest Plan revision
- Provide an opportunity for the public to contribute to the assessment of current conditions and trends affecting our forest—the first stage of the Forest Plan revision process
